

As a professional truck-driver and a listener to XM radio. The ability to receive the local broadcasts for local weather and traffic in the major cities is very important to my ability to do my job quickly and safely. I do NOT know what local radio station carries the local traffic and weather and even if they do the information is not broadcast continuously as XM does.

Most of the people who own and listen to satellite radio do not live in the area they are driving in and the services offered by both Sirius and XM radio are needed by it's listeners.

Tom Newman